Why can't I download? A: I would suggest you to use a better mirror. The average Ubuntu download size is about 3G in my country. You will never reach a file download that fast. In fact, you also need to be ready to face some (minor) speed problems. [Autonomic hyperreflexia. Neuromotor manifestations and its relation to sleep disorders]. Autonomic hyperreflexia is a serious autonomic disorder that occurs in patients with spinal cord lesions above the fourth vertebra and in some patients with lesions below the fourth vertebra and central facilitation. This disorder is characterized by hyperactivity of the autonomic nervous system, and, although with different level of severity, it becomes more evident when the patient has the state of spasm. This is a diagnostic and therapeutical challenge. To analyze the presence of paroxysmal autonomic hyperreflexia and its relationship with sleep disorders. Retrospective and descriptive study, carried out in 83 patients with confirmed diagnosis of Autonomic Hyperreflexia and 49 patients with other sleep disorders (DSM-IV criteria), from which 31 patients were excluded for not fulfilling the criteria. We found 36 patients (43.4%) with paroxysmal autonomic hyperreflexia, whose average time of presence was 43.93 months. All patients had suffered from chronic progressive spinal cord lesions above the fourth vertebra, and 34.1% of them had also central facilitation. The most common manifestations of paroxysmal autonomic hyperreflexia are pulsatile vomiting (58.3%), diarrhea (26.7%), abdominal pain (11.1%), and palpitation (6.1%). Seven patients (16.7%) admitted sleep disorders, and there was no significant statistical difference in relation to the presence of hyperreflexia. Autonomic hyperreflexia is a frequent and serious complication that compromises the quality of life of patients with chronic progressive spinal cord lesions at or above the fourth vertebra. These patients have a high percentage of sleep disorders. The significance of evaluating this symptom is to adopt the proper diagnostic evaluation and treatment and avoid an inappropriate prescription of symptomatic treatments. At about 3:45pm PDT (06:45 UTC) on April 30th, a fire broke out at a recently-built, low-rise community apartment building in downtown Vancouver, Canada. A few minutes later, the building collapsed, killing three people. Local officials and media outlets claim that
